

In 2009, it was the Fifteen Weeks of Bees. In 2010, it's going to bee:

Twenty Weeks of Buzz!

Leading up to the tenth Mary Russell/Sherlock Holmes novel, The God of the Hive (Laurie R. King's twentieth novel) on April 27, the e-universe will be abuzz with Russell:

- * New Russell tale: "A Case of Correspondence" (weekly episodes, GotH tie-in.)
- * A fundraiser for Heifer International with a Grand Prize: Name a character
- * Giveaways of The Beekeeper's Apprentice
- * Mary Russell on Twitter—and, a Twitter Party!
- * A new illustrated broadside with an original short story: "The Green Man"
- * "The Green Man" broadside drawing for an Indy Books customer
- * An interview between Laurie R. King and Mary Russell
- * Weekly reflections on all 20 novels by Laurie R. King on "Mutterings"
- * New book pages with group discussion guides and background info
- * Fan art projects: Russellsapes; Illuminated MyStory; story illustrations
- * Fan writing projects: What Holmes means to me; I/Libraries; fanfiction
- * Virtual Book Club discussions and interviews
- * Weekly drawings and contests of ARCs, hardbacks, paperbacks, and broadsides
- * A book tour in May, with an emphasis on libraries

Join us as the Buzz builds for The God of the Hive, at www.LaurieRKing.com. For an interview or more information, write us at Bees@laurierking.com

Laurie R. King is the New York Times bestselling author of twenty award-winning novels. The Beekeeper's Apprentice was named one of the century's best crime novels by the Independent Mystery Booksellers Association.